

50 THINGS YOU SHOULD TALK ABOUT Before You Get Married

by Ray Salisbury

♥ A Bit of our Backstory...

24 years ago when I was dating my wife, one of the really helpful things I read about was from an American relational psychologist. In his book Finding The Love Of Your Life, Dr. Warren explains how we are attracted to the opposite sex.

Opposites attract – this is often true, but studies show that the most satisfying marriages are usually ones in which partners are very much alike. The vast majority of research indicates that you tend to be happiest with someone a lot like yourself.

Dr. Warren gives us a long list of topics we can discuss with our significant other. Lynette and I used this list as a basis for discussion during our earliest dates. It was a great way to get to know each other.

Surprisingly, my girlfriend and I agreed on 47 out of the 50 topics in this list. Despite having opposite personality types (which complement each other well), we liked to do the same things, had a similar world-view, religious beliefs, and cultural background.

While weddings are costly affairs, though temporal, marriages are lifelong and cost a lot more in emotional energy, and thus, are worth investing the most time in.

So... be brave! Read through this list with your partner, and dare to discuss the details of your future together. Don't rush it!
